The Student Engagement Maze

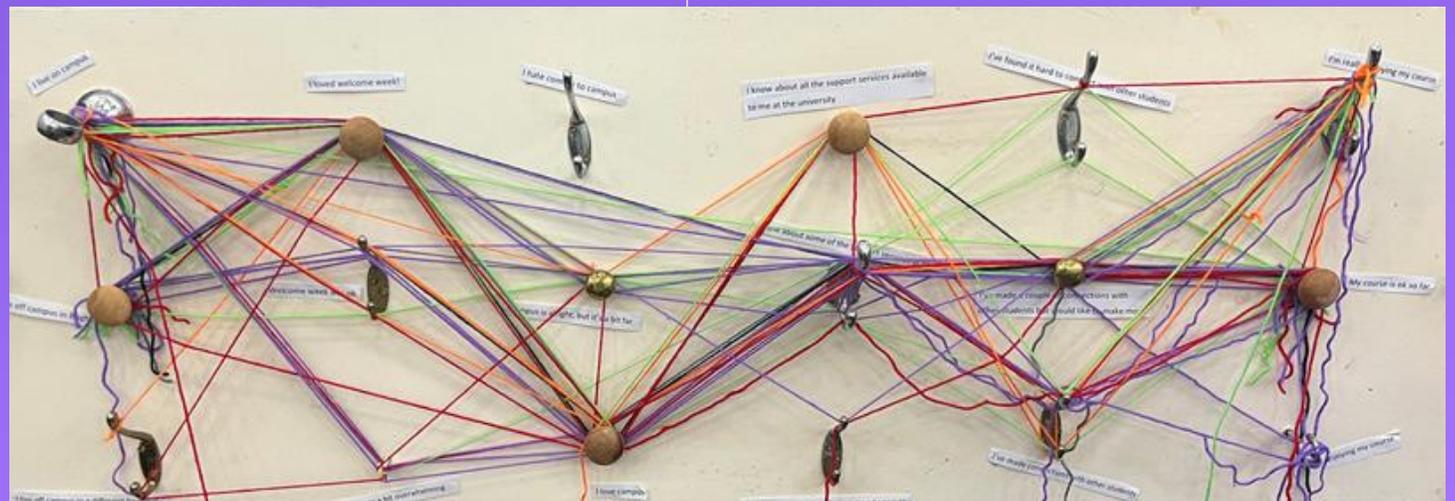

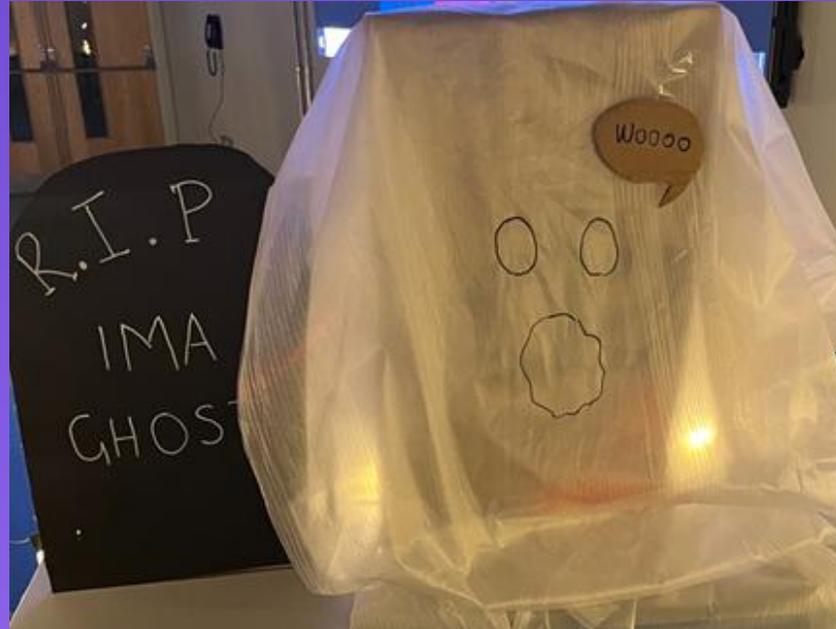

Turning the physical into the digital

Welcome to our workshop!

- Find a table
- Engage with the physical feedback method on your table
 - Enjoy a chocolate while everyone gets settled 😊

The birth of Bramber

- We collaborated with PhD students to help bring our idea to life (Tell Me Lemon)
- Bramber the Seagull comes to life in animated scenarios around campus
- Asks students questions and guides them to various buildings where they can cultivate their support, development and community
- We are gamifying evaluation to gain information that we need and giving students a chance to explore their campus (specifically good for first years, returners and new starters)
- Hopefully, this resource can extend to wider institutional use
 - Open days
 - Summer schools
 - Transition events

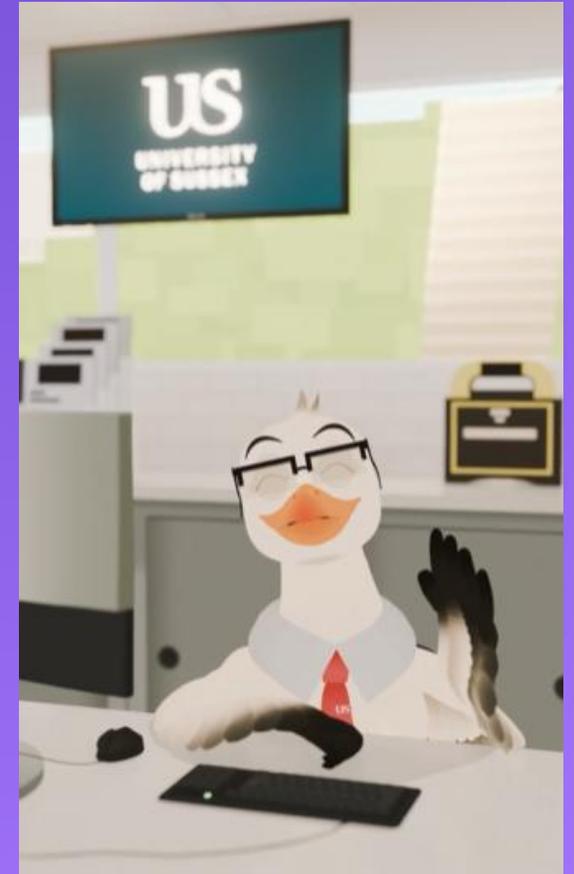

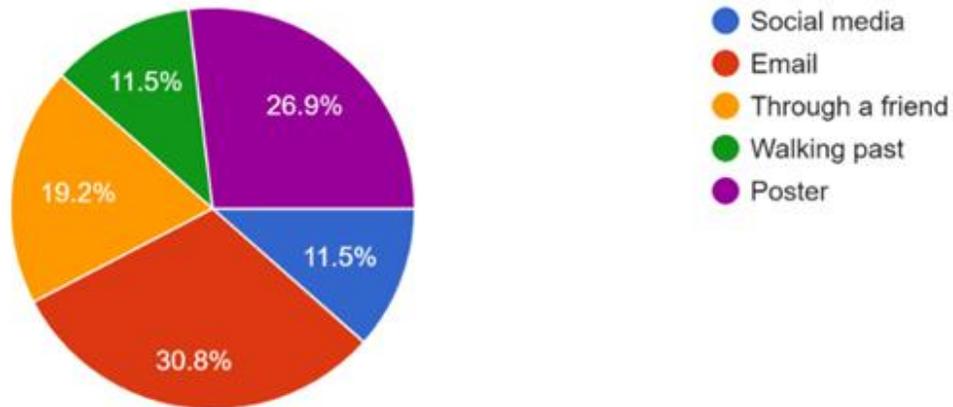

Try it out!

How do you currently engage your students digitally?

- In your groups spend 5 minutes discussing the ways in which you currently engage your students
- For example, Explorance, surveys, NSS
- How do you get your students to use these platforms?
- Write your ideas on the paper provided
- Feedback to the group after

Design a student voice game to elicit feedback

- Our game was a quest with Bramber the seagull – what would you create to engage your students?
- Name your university
- Limitless budget and limitless resource

15 mins to discuss

What kind of game is it? Narrative, strategy, puzzle etc?

What are they trying to achieve?

Is there an ending?

How is the game useful to us as practitioners?

Who is being targeted by this engagement?

How would you promote this game?
